

About Rem

Rem Jackson

Rem Jackson is the President and CEO of Top Practices, LLC, in Lancaster, PA, a company he founded to help podiatrists and other professionals, businesses and educators to reach their full potential through innovative marketing, sales, management and professional development programs. He is a Fellow of the AAPPMP and an adjunct faculty member at The Kent State University College of Podiatric Medicine in their practice management program. He also leads the Top Practices Master Mind Group.

In 2012, Rem was the recipient of the AAPPMP President's Award. He has held several high-level positions in business and education and has written a number of articles for several publications. He holds a BA in Political Science and studied graduate-level psychology coursework at Pennsylvania State University.